ALLIED ECONOMIC EXPERTS.

RUSSIA'S OBLIGATIONS REPORT.

GENERAL GOLD STANDARD RETURN.

LONDON, April 13.
The report of the allied experts meeting in London prior to the Genoa conference recommends regarding Russia and its preceding governments' financial obligations that compensation for foreigners who have lost property be mobilised in a fixed lump sum, and pecuniary indemnities shall be acknowledged by handing over interest-bearing bonds. A Russian debt commission will be formed to supervise these operations and select assets as a basis of security for bonds which must be consolidated by November 1, 1927. The report further provides for overhauling of the judicial system which shall be independent of the executive. Foreigners shall have the same rights to enter or leave Russia as practised in other countries. There shall be no forced loans. Postal and telegraphic censorship shall be abolished, freedom of commerce shall be established, and penal sentences shall not be inflicted on foreigners without the consent of the condemned person's consul.

BACK TO GOLD.

LONDON, April 13.
The speediest possible return to the gold standard is the allied experts' main recommendation regarding the stabilisation of currency. This should be assisted by an association of central banks, also by an international convention for the purpose of centralising and co-ordinating the demand for gold to avoid fluctuations in price which are likely to follow competitive fluctuations. A number of countries to secure unstable reserves. Each country should be left free to decide whether to adopt the gold standard or new parity, approximating the present exchange value of its currency. Experts advise early abandonment of restrictions on imports and exports which is applied to certain countries with object temporarily to protect their currencies.

GERMANY'S FINANCES.

PARIS, April 13.
The Reparation Commission in the course of a draft reply to the German note rejecting the demand for Allied control of Germany and the levy of sixty milliards of new taxation, but expressing willingness to submit data clarifying the German financial situation, repeats its observations on the inadequacy of Germany's financial efforts and the necessity of inaugurating a system of financial control. The reply declares that if Germany does not take the measures necessary to pay its finances in order, the commission will be obliged on May 31 to adopt certain measures which, however, will not interfere with the administration.

PRINCE OF WALES.

JAPAN VISIT.

YESTERDAY'S ENGAGEMENTS.

TOKYO, FRIDAY.
There was a heavy downpour of rain this morning. The Prince of Wales and his staff attended a service at St. Andrew's English Church and unveiled tablets to Tokyo Britons and British officers attached to the Embassy who fell in the war. Notwithstanding the weather thousands lined the route.

The remainder of the day was spent privately. In the evening the Prince dined at the Oxford and Cambridge Club. On Saturday morning the Prince reviews troops if the weather is fine and in the afternoon attends a garden party given by the British Society. At night a dinner and a ball are being given at the British Embassy. (From Sir Herbert Russell, Reuter's Special Correspondent.)

AEROPLANE DISASTER.

FAMOUS AVIATOR KILLED.

SIR ROSS SMITH'S DEATH.

LONDON, April 13.
On the eve of his starting a world flight from Croydon on April 25 Sir Ross Smith and Lieutenant Bennett were killed in a crash in a practice flight at Brooklands this morning.

The machine got into a spin and crashed when approaching the aerodrome to land.

PILOT LOSES CONTROL.

LONDON, April 13.
Prior to the accident Captain Cockerell tested the machine for thirty minutes. He then handed the machine over to Sir Ross Smith who, accompanied by Lieut. Bennett, ascended. They flew well for fifteen minutes in excellent flying conditions with a westerly wind blowing fifteen miles an hour. Suddenly the machine developed a spin. Apparently the pilot lost control. The aeroplane descended at a terrific speed and crashed on the top of an iron fence. Sir Ross Smith was killed instantly and Lieut. Bennett died two minutes later. Sir Keith Smith intended accompanying his brother but arrived at the aerodrome after the machine had ascended and witnessed the disaster.

BROTHER'S TERRIBLE AGITATION.

LONDON, April 14.
The air disaster was witnessed by the heads of the Vickers firm and 1,500 of their employees. The machine dived above Brooklands for twenty minutes, behaving splendidly. Sir Ross Smith shut off the engine to descend and nose dived to a hundred feet from the ground when he tried to straighten out but the machine came down spirally and suddenly crashed, knocking down four trees and narrowly escaping the concrete track of Brooklands. Keith Smith was terribly agitated when he realised what had happened, and he flung himself across his brother's body. The machine is a total wreck, although the petrol engine and did not catch fire. The fabric was torn off the machine to cover the boxes which were taken to Weybridge mortuary.

FLIGHT TO AUSTRALIA.

Sir Ross Macpherson Smith, K.B.E., M.C., D.F.C., A.F.C. was famous for his flight to Australia in 1919, the first ever made, for which he received his knighthood and a prize of $10,000 from the Australian Government. Born in Adelaide (South Australia) in 1892 he was educated at Queen's School in that city and Wariston School, Scotland. He served on Gallipoli and Sinai with the Australian Light Horse and spent two years with the Australian Flying Corps in Palestine. He made the first flight from Cairo to Calcutta in 1918.

Sir Keith Macpherson Smith, accompanied his brother on his flight to Australia and for this received his knighthood. Educated with his brother he spent his early life on a sheep station and after school joined the staff of Elder, Smith and Co., Ltd. Adelaide to learn the stock business. Rejected for active service in Australia when war broke out, he went to England in the beginning of 1917 and joined the Royal Flying Corps. He served until the Armistice as a pilot and flying instructor. For his services he was mentioned in despatches.

The two brothers were to have started from Croydon on April 25 on a world flight on a Vickers Viking amphibian machine, fitted with a 450 horse power Napier engine. The route was to have been via Lyons, Egypt, Mesopotamia, Persia, India, Burma, China, Japan, Kamchatka, the Aleutians, Alaska, Canada, New York, St. John's and then across the Atlantic direct to Ireland or alternatively via the Azores. The estimated duration of the flight was three months.

SEMEVOFF JAILED.

BAIL CANCELLED.

NEW YORK, April 14.
Semenoff, the Siberian general, has been jailed owing to the guaranteeing company cancelling its bail bond as a sequel to the evidence heard before the Senate committee by General Graves, American commander in Siberia and others reflecting on Semenoff's administration of affairs in Siberia.

Semenoff was arrested on arrival at New York from Washington in connection with a civil action alleging the theft of China in 1919 of furs and wools valued at $475,000, belonging to the Yoverata Home and Foreign Trading Company, which is now bankrupt. Semenoff, after strenuous efforts, secured bail in $25,000.

ST. STEPHEN'S COLLEGE.

SUCCESSFUL SPORTS MEETING.

The annual athletic sports meeting of St. Stephen's College was successfully held at the Racecourse on Thursday. There was a large gathering of parents of the students and friends of the College present, and although the weather was a little too warm, all the events were very keenly contested. There were some very exciting and close finishes, and some excellent times were recorded. Hung Hui-chang, who secured first place in most of the events won the senior championship cup, while the junior cup went to Chan Shui-king. A new event was the pole vault. Two boys tied for first place and very sportingly tossed for the prize.

At the conclusion of the sports, Mrs. S. C. Treng distributed the prizes to the successful competitors. Mr. Treng congratulated the College on its fine performance that afternoon and expressed the hope that St. Stephen's would claim a place in the Far Eastern Olympiad records. (Applause).

SOUTH CHINA A.A.

ANNUAL SPORTS MEETING.

The finals of the second annual athletic sports meeting of the South China Athletic Association were run off at the Racecourse yesterday, the heats and the minor events having been decided on Wednesday. The Valley was thronged with Chinese, including many ladies, who all took a keen interest in the various events, which were very strenuously contested. There was keen sporting rivalry between the various Chinese Associations taking part, with the result that a very excellent day's sport was enjoyed by all. The various Associations represented at the meeting were: Chinese Y.M.C.A., Ching Mo Athletic Association, Messrs. Wong Sin Woon, and South China Athletic Association, Canton Christian College, St. Paul's College, Queen's College, and St. Joseph's College were also represented. The event of the day was the 8 mile dash race. Seven started but only three finished. The winner, Leung Ying Lun, put up a very creditable performance. Content to keep behind the pack for four rounds of the Racecourse, he spurred strongly in the last and won comfortably in 24 minutes 55 seconds, a very creditable performance considering that the sun was scorchingly hot when the race was run soon after 3 o'clock. Mrs. Tsang Yiu Ting distributed the prizes at the conclusion, and was presented with a beautiful bouquet in a silver vase.

TWICE A DAY TAKE SANATOGEN

(The True Tonic Food)

It will increase your vitality—tone up your nerves—and invigorate your whole system.

Sanatogen twice a day means a better day's work—means greater energy and staying-power—means that you feel brighter, fresher, and keener all day, in spite of this depressing climate. Try it!

A famous Professor of Physiology has demonstrated in the "Lancet" the increased vitality in the blood and nervous system—especially in the cells of the brain and spinal cord—after feeding with Sanatogen. . . . But the improvement is not limited to the blood and nerve cells. It affects in a pronounced manner and in a remarkably short time every cell in the body which counts for health purposes.

Never forget that Sanatogen is a food, not a medicine or a "secret remedy." It increases nerve-energy by feeding the nerves—not by goading them with drugs or stimulants. Its action is as natural as that of any ordinary food: it must do good and cannot do harm. That is why doctors give it even to babies. And that is why so many people in the tropics take Sanatogen regularly all the year round—not as an occasional tonic, but as part of their daily diet.

You should do likewise if you want to keep your health and nerve-power at the highest pitch and so avoid the debilitating effects of this climate. Begin at once, and take your Sanatogen systematically—a definite amount at fixed hours of the day—a little Sanatogen often is better than much Sanatogen seldom.

Buy Sanatogen to-day at the nearest chemist.
Made by the original inventors, A. Wulff & Co.

ADVERSARIA.

Savourers of literary style may tell me who wrote this bit: "In my frisky youth I could doubtless have allowed this chronicle to go forth in the most fluent and romantic style in which it was first written; but age steals the poetry out of a man's joints though, to make amends, it sometimes makes his mood more humorous and ironic. So blame the rusty jade Time, if you find I have not left enough of the flowers of language, and if the most part be written in a dry and jejune way, as it, while the writer scribbled, he smiled at his own folly."

No need to tax your wits for guessing the authorship of this one. It is clipped from the Edinburgh Dispatch.

What interest does our Government pay for the use of the Widows' and Orphans' Fund? The Ceylon Government has decided to raise the rate of interest it pays on the money of the Widows' and Orphans' Pension Fund invested with it, from six per cent to eight per cent, and accordingly a vote of Rs. 184,463.84 is shortly to be asked from the Legislative Council.

From a Shanghai paper of April 8, page 8: "Generally speaking the attitude of the public seems to be that while it does not want to recognize the truth of the argument that higher theatrical charges are justified by higher costs it is gradually being compelled to do so. At least, there has been a great change since, like one man, the community rebelled against the extra charges demanded by the unfortunate Miss Marie Tempest's impression, judging by the recent success of some high-priced stars. Now assuredly no one is looking for excuses to add to 'H.C.L.' certainly no journalist. But it should not be forgotten that, in all countries and at all times, people have had to pay handsomely for the pleasure of hearing musical stars."

From the same paper, same day, page 8: "The Guild Squeeze: A record published by a London paper, records another record, the cost of beef, mutton, and other kinds of meat taking effect from April 1. This increase, it is said, is the result of the fact that the British Guild, it is bit heavy when it is considered that four cents per lb. is added to all standard cuts of beef and much more on fancy cuts. The reason given by the guild for this increase is the scarcity of cattle resulting from the famine."

I have been reading this week the manuscript of a book written by a local man dealing with his experiences, and those of the London Rifles, in the Great War. I found it an exhausting reading, not because it was ill written, or dry, but because I was so often moved to strong emotions. After a long series of such shocks, there is a weaker reaction, and a sense of weariness. Yet I could not lay it down. A big story well told by a man one knows, about matters as to which one earnestly craves the unvarnished truth, has the greatest fascination. In this book the horror of war is not touched upon, as by Henri Barbusse. There is none of the Celtic sentimentalism of McGill. But it grips. It is a pity that the author completed it so late. No publisher is likely to consider it now.

This manuscript, nearly bound, had been lent to others before I was privileged to get it. I wish people would not put pencil marks in books not their own. In your own copy, for your own use, it is permissible and even wise; but in a book to pass from hand to hand these things are annoying distractions. If a passage be really striking it needs no underlining or marginal marking. It is not the previous reader's soul we are interested in, but the author's. Besides, as often as not these trespassing marks put emphasis where the author had not meant it, and where one's own taste would not put it. Library books are frequently spoiled for me in this way. So far, the members of our Book Club seem to have more sense—and better manners.

Well, well. Reminds me of a naughty story I heard about a certain rather merry gent, who butted into a Peak hen party and called for beer. Every lady rose to serve him. It is probably not true, but (if such as "Artemus" be authorities) it is not impossible.

Last year I wrote an article in reply to a young man who had asked me for advice in his love affairs. I have not looked to see what I said, for I never want to see again anything I may write for the Press; but I heard of it again, months after. I met at a dinner a slip of a woman with a bonny face, of that beauty which is commonly written "spiritually," though why we do not say spiritual at once and be done with it I know not; and this soulful young woman told me she liked to read the China Mail, but could not read the ideas about women. This nearly, but not quite spoiled my dinner. It was so unjust. All my life (since about thirteen, of course) I have been a devoted lover of women, and I made enemies by my championship of women's rights. I have sacrificed much for women, and I am not done yet, I hope. But I must get even with this one, by quoting other writers of greater eminence than myself. I like to see her in a tantrum, and these quotations should do it.

Firstly, on Christmas Day 1653 the honest Pepps wrote:

"To church in the morning and there saw a wedding in the church which I have not seen for many a day; and the young people so merry with each other, and strange to see what delight we married people have to see those poor fools decoyed into our condition, every man and woman gazing and smiling at them."

Secondly, Bernard Shaw makes John Tanner in Man and Superman say this:

"Marriage is to me apostasy, profanation of the sanctuary of my soul, violation of my manhood, sale of my birthright, shameful surrender, ignominious capitulation, acceptance of defeat. I shall change from a man with a future to a man with a past; I shall see in the greasy eyes of all the other husbands their relief at the arrival of a new prisoner to share their ignominy."

Thirdly, there was a Frenchman who summed it all up in two words, "conjugal perdition."

This to give notice that I will not be bullied by a woman, even a pretty one.

Marking back to that war book which I am still reading, I wish to say that I found one passage which I would like to beg the author to cut out. It gives war the credit for the education of public character which he observed taking place. These phenomena were released by the hardships of war; and war hardships are not the only ones. Think of the Scott retreat from the South Pole. Think of the nobility of action reported to often in hardships at sea. War is brutalizing. That is to say the business and the passions of war are brutalizing, as this book also shows in places. It should not get credit for the by-products of the hardships incidental to it. Mr. C. E. Montague in his war book, entitled "Disenchantment," tells this story.

"A General of some consequence during part of the war gave a lecture, towards its end, to a body of officers and others on what he called 'the fighting spirit.' He told with enthusiasm an anecdote of a captured trench in which some of our men had been killing off German appellants for quarter. Another German appearing and putting his hands up, one of our men—so the story went—called out, 'Ere! Where's 'Arry! 'E ain't 'ad one yet.' Probably someone had pulled the good General's leg, and the thing never happened. 'But he believed it, and deeply approved the 'bleeding' of 'Arry. That, he explained, was the fighting spirit.'"

What I mean to say is, true or not, that general was brutalized.

The same author (Montague) recalls the effect of newspaper propaganda on a little blond Regular subaltern named at the first Battle of Ypres.

"Pretty measly sample of the one-legged child grunted savagely, showing a London paper's comic sketch of a corpulent German running away. The first words I ever heard, uttered in palliation of German misdoings in Belgium came from a Regular N.C.O., a Dragon Guards sergeant, holding forth to a sargeant's mess behind our line. 'We'd have done every damn thing they did,' he averred, 'if it had been we.' I thought him rather extravagant, then."

There was also the famous fraternizing and football on Christmas. Montague, by the way, was a combatant. He is rather good about a chaplain:

"He seemed to be only too much afraid of having it thought that he was anything more than one of our elves. He had, with a vengeance, no clerical nonsense about him. The vigour with which he threw off the parson and put on the man and the brother did not always strike the original men and brothers as it was intended. Your villain chaplain was apt to overdo, to their mind, his jolly implied disclaimers of any compromising connection with kingdoms not of this world. For one thing, he was, for the taste of people versed in carnage, a shade too fustily blood-thirsty. Nobody made such a point of aping your little trench affectations of callousness; nobody else was so anxious to keep you assured that the blood of the enemy smelt as good to his nose as it could to any of yours. In the whole blood-and-iron province of talk he would not only outshine any actual combatant—that is quite easy to do—but he would outshine any colonel who lived at a base."

I was once entertained for a weekend by a friend who said there would be no one but ourselves. And no women. So I utilized most of the space in my suitcase for tins of tobacco, and shoved in only one change of clothes. One pair of socks (damned) one shirt, one suit (much worn) and so on. There were no women, sure enough, but there was a valet, who alarmed me even more. He grabbed my bag, and displayed my poor wardrobe, preparatory to putting the things in various drawers and cupboards. My idea was to keep 'em in the bag, but he wouldn't allow that. In the morning I could find neither the spurs nor the things I had cast the night before. He had taken them away to brush them. There I was, with three tins of tobacco and a suit of pyjamas, and wanting my breakfast. What the valet thought of my possessions I did not know, but I did a lot of guessing. When I let I didn't know whether to write him a cheque for all I'd got, or to risk half a sovereign. What a perfectly comfortable world this would be if there were no women and no valets in it. When a fellow has been accustomed to roll up his trousers and use 'em as a pillow in his bunk, these valeting stunts are very trying. It is no earthly use pressing mine, because in half an hour I make 'em comfortable again.

The body of "Roderick Random" was disinterred on Thursday. The explanation of the delay in the exhumation is the Prince's Visit, but he had been dead far, far longer than that. I do not trouble to ascertain the date. My sufficient evidence is the condition of the cadaver. Old.

I am remembering STERNE'S with some sadness the old advice: If your business ever interferes with your pleasures, cut out the business. I have invitations (1) to stay at Peking, Tsingtau, Shanghai, and Java (2) for a free trip to Saigon, and (3) for a cruise in the southern Pacific. Then there is the West River trip, which takes just too long for the Easter holiday. The next time I get the sack I'll keep it. You just watch me.

After much tedious opposition, the Medical Research Council have appointed a committee to advise upon the promotion of researches into the biological actions of direct sunlight upon the human body in health or disease. In Europe and America a great deal has been done by advanced physicians with sunshine. It can kill some germs (in properly considered conditions) as it kills fungi on the clothes and boots your servants put out. There has to be some common sense. You don't want sunstroke, headaches, or fever, but you do want to give free air and sunshine a better chance at your body. Light and heat are enervating, but light and cold stimulate. If there is a nice breeze blowing, in bright sunshine, and you can get a ship all to yourself, it may pay you to dress like Adam for a while.

I saw in one of the OF LEISURE, Home papers an article in which one of those strange men who want to do good and make one blade of grass grow where before only an onion grew was complaining that so many men "waste" their leisure at street corners. I kept my temper, reflecting that as things are more fools must appear in print than wise men. This fellow wanted these loafers to attend good plays and hear good music! To me leisure is soil for soul growing. The lilies that Jesus made such a point of are lilies because they have leisure, and I cannot recall that they were described as loafers because of their habit. Good plays and good music are only artificial modes of passing time agreeably, and there never was a good play more interesting or more mentally profitable than what a reflective loafer can watch from his street corner. I am myself interested in botany, but I deny that without it a country walk cannot be enjoyed and good got of it, the sense of beauty sharpened, and the capacity for joy enlarged. I am fond of reading, but too much reading is a vice, if the real world be neglected for it. An art gallery may uplift, but never as the great out-of-doors can do. I prefer sunsets to pictures of them, and the summer sky to most poems. So far as leisure goes, inaction is better than action, which (though often camouflaged as sport) may be mere fidgets. For to see and for to admire is enough as regards the right use of leisure. "Keeping fit" is not a job for leisure at all. It is work, and the hours given to it are working hours. Those who fuss to make their neighbours spend leisure "wisely" in effect desire to rob them of it. Leisure is really "your laz," though I doubt if you will find it so said in the dictionary.

Dr. Temple, Bishop of TRINITY, Manchester, writing to the Manchester Guardian, says: "As Pisto long ago pointed out, the principles of an accepted social order tend to implant themselves in the citizens and so affect personal character. It is futile to teach brotherly-kindness to people who must either starve or earn their livelihood as members of a system of cut-throat competition."

"That the proposal to lay out a public HAPPY VALLEY golf course in Richmond Park is receiving serious consideration is both surprising and disconcerting," says the Saturday Review. "The plan, if carried into effect, would entail a loss of freedom to the general public quite out of proportion to the gain accruing to the few whom it would benefit. But of course we all know now that it is no use talking."

If the historians of the future are going to milk the newspaper files, I could weep for the future students of history. Here is a local story exactly as clipped from a Penang contemporary: "The Police guarded the Kowloon frontier ordered about 20,000 strikers, who were attempting to walk from Hongkong to Canton, as no steamers and trains were available, to halt. They refused, defied and assaulted the Police, who fired wounding several of them." If 20,000 strikers had assaulted the half dozen policemen I'm afraid they would have been too damaged to come back and tell us about it. Of course the story is what they call "substantially" correct. Except that the 20,000 was two thousand, that they were not walking to Canton, but to the first railway station in Chinese territory, that trains were available, but not permits to use them, and that they did not assault anybody, the Penang version is as nearly history as we are likely to get from a journalist.

I see that the leading writer of the Telegraph not only objects to be called a tripehound but considers it "a gratuitous and absolutely unjustified insult." Naturally, not having yet been invited to dinner by him—an oversight difficult to explain—I don't know what his attitude towards tripe may be. Personally I love it. There is something in tripe that appeals to me, and if anyone were to call me a tripehound I should accept it as a compliment. I attended a dinner on the Peak not long ago (absolutely the best of company, I assure you) at which every course was a tripe course. As the Hon. Sec. of the Union Club I would be very glad to join a tripe club, if there were one. I see that the Telegraph writer doesn't know his New Testament, by the way, or he would scarcely have taken up his "wild beast" allusion in the injured way he did. He says the Mail isn't respectable (thank God it's not) and he reproves it for slang, although the page he adorns was full of slang. The idiom "damn all" seems to have got him too. It made him confess ownership of a little bunch of italics: He explains (so far as telling Sir Paul Chater what to do is concerned) that his standpoint was: "Give where the need is greatest." In that case the money must go to the coolie class. But our leader writes tells me he will put the Kindergarten Paper in its proper place when he returns from his Easter holiday, on Tuesday. So I must not queer his pitch. I have advised him to withdraw the expression "tripehounds" and call 'em all "crib suckers."

BEAUMONT'S BAIL.

Remanded for a week on a charge of having quitted the Colony in 1920 with the object of defeating bankruptcy proceedings E. A. Beaumont applied to Magistrate Wood on Thursday, through his solicitor (Mr. C. A. S. Russ), to have his bail of $5,000 returned. Mr. Russ said Beaumont would have great difficulty in raising $5,000 and if he were kept in jail he would not be able to go into his accounts.

The Magistrate intimated that he would not consider the application unless the official Receiver were consulted.

AT THE BARBERS.

AN INTERRUPTED HAIRCUT.

If you go to a Chinese barber to get your hair cut go before six p.m. Otherwise you may find yourself turned adrift with the tonsorial operation only half completed. That happened to a customer who patronised a barber's shop in Yau-mati last Sunday. Towards 7 p.m. he was lying back in the chair while the barber ran the clippers over his pate when a dozen or so members of the Barbers' Guild rushed in and wanted to know why the shop was being kept open after 6 o'clock. They told the barber to stop cutting the customer's hair and he said that he would stop when he had finished the job. That would not do, they told him, and they snatched his clippers away.

After that there was a proper dust-up and for some moments the air was thick with hair clippers and other hard missiles lying about the shop. A stool aimed at a shop folk laid out one of the raiders instead and when the police arrived they found him lying on the floor and taking but small interest in the subsequent proceedings. He and two others were arrested and on Thursday they came before Mr. J. R. Wood at the Magistracy to answer charges, under the Criminal Intimidation Ordinance, of threatening the barber with injury. The complainant told the Magistrate that neither he nor his folks approved the rule requiring business to be stopped at 6 o'clock which was incorporated in the agreement made recently. He said that most of the master barbers "did not agree to the new rules drawn up by the employees. Only a few of the masters had signed them."

Mr. King, D.S.P. at Kowloon, prosecuting, said he would try and prove that the employees were trying to intimidate the masters into closing their shops at 6 p.m.

The charge was amended to one of "threatening to do an illegal act," at the suggestion of the Magistrate and, after evidence had been heard, the hearing was adjourned to next Tuesday. Mr. F.G. Vaux appears for the defence.

Capt. E.R.G. Evans, C.B., D.S.O., R.N., is giving an illustrated lantern lecture at the Tai-ko Club on Wednesday at 8.45 p.m. His subject is "Scott's last expedition. Tickets may be booked by telephone to Tai-ko Dockyard or may be had at the door. The proceeds go to naval benefits."

At the Roman Catholic Cathedral, Masses were said as usual on Thursday morning between 8 and 8.30 a.m., and at 11 a.m., His Lordship Bishop Pozzoni performed the "Washing of Feet" ceremony. Faithfuls took turns of two hours each as Guard of Honour before the Blessed Sacrament all day, and all night watch was kept up until Good Friday morning when a "half Mass" was said, stopping at the Communion, when the crucifix was exposed for veneration. In the afternoon, large numbers attended the terence and "Way of the Cross." Rev. Fr. Augustin of St. Joseph's Church preached from the pulpit as each of the fourteen stations was reached. The service was most impressive. It was followed with great devotion. This morning the Alleluia Mass was sung, when doves were released in the Cathedral amid peals of bells, and the altars and statues were unveiled.

TRIALS SOLICITED BY

JAMES STEER

THE CHRONOMETER AND WATCH MAKER

(Contractor to H. M. Naval Yard)

8, 100 HONG KONG STREET, HONGKONG.

CHILDREN'S CORNER

RESULTS OF THE COMPETITIONS.

Writing competition. 1st prize, G. Landway, aged 8. Consolation Prize C. James, aged 14.

Drawing competition. 1st prize, Maude George, aged 11. Consolation prizes, Arthur White, aged 7 (1) Olive White, aged 6. Elsa Batalha, aged 12.

My dear Children,

The results of the competitions were rather disappointing again as I hoped that nearly everyone of you would either draw or write something. The ones who did enter did well though. G. Landway sent a very well expressed letter and it was beautifully written for a boy of eight. I had a long letter from C. James too, very carefully typed and, as you will see, he is fourteen and a half.

Maude George drew the illuminated anchor which was over the Dockyard gate and so did Arthur White. Olive White drew the Prince of Wales Feathers and "God bless our Prince", which was over Sir Paul Chater's house. Elsa Batalha sent an amusing drawing of a girl who had split all her soup because she was anxious to see the prince passing!

I shall probably send the prizes along after Easter, so do not think that they are never coming! I hope that you will all have very jolly Easter holidays.

Your loving—

PETER PAN.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS.

Arthur White. I am so sorry to hear that you have been in hospital for such a long time and hope that you are quite all right again now.

Maude George. I was pleased to have your letter Maude and you will see that your first attempt at drawing has won a prize.

LETTERS OF THE PRIZE WINNERS.

Dear Peter Pan,

I want to tell you all about the Prince's visit.

At half past eight I left my house and took a tram up to town. I got out at the corner of City Hall and waited there. At the time it was not very crowded. It was raining a little but I did not mind it.

At nine o'clock I heard the firing of cannons. I knew then that the Prince had come.

People began to gather round me. I ran to the front. The people let me pass. A soldier said to me, "Here sonny I will carry you up." He lifted me up to his shoulders. Don't you think he is very kind? After a long time a crowd of police came along to clear the road. A beautiful chair with eight chair coolies carrying it came along. Inside this chair there was a smiling young man. As soon as they saw him the people cheered him. The soldier who was carrying me said, "Cheer sonny." I shouted "Hoony, hoony!"

The chair passed on. When it had passed the soldier let me down. I said "Thank you." He smiled.

Then I saw the fireworks. They were simply lovely.

Then I went home for tea.

After that I ran to the polo ground. (You see my house is very near there.) I had to wait a long time before H.R.H. came along. He was in a motor car. I saw the Governor in that car too. The people began cheering. I cheered too. I could not see the match at first so I went inside the ground. The soldiers did not scold me. The Prince played a very good game. (That was what my father told me.)

In the night I went up town to see the fireworks and the fish. I like the different colour of lights. They looked so beautiful. The fish were very nice too and the fireworks. I went home in a ricksha with my father.

I was awake early next morning. I went to the school parade (isn't that a hard word but my father told me how to spell it). I saw the Prince very well. He is very nice looking. He is always smiling. I like him very much. He talked to us. After he had talked we all cheered. He smiled again. Then he left us. When we were allowed to go I ran to see the Indian soldiers. The Prince talked to them. They cheered. We cheered also. The Prince then went to the new house. I did not follow him because it was so crowded. I went back to the ground to wait for him. After a long time he came along again in a motor car. We all cheered him. He smiled and took off his hat. Then I went home for tea.

I asked my father to bring me to the races but he did not. He said that it would be too crowded. So I stayed home.

SPORT.

FOOTBALL.

TO-DAY'S MATCHES.

LEAGUE DIVISION I.

The following matches in the first division of the Hongkong Football League are down for decision to-day:

"Tamar" v. Club Navy "B" ground. Referee, Mr. Smith.
S.O.A. v. R.G.A. Club ground. Referee, Mr. Newton.

"Ambrose" v. "Cairo" Navy "A" ground. Referee, Mr. Hollands.
All the matches start at 4.30 p.m., sharp.

The "Tamar" Club match should produce some fine football. A closely contested game is assured, as both teams stand a chance of winning the championship if they can secure the points at stake in this match. The "Tamar" have only to play the Club to a draw to equal the "Curlew's" points and qualify to meet them in the final, while the Club have to secure both points to enter the final. Kehr will be down from Canton for this match, but it has not yet been decided who will partner Gerrard in the Club's back line.

"Tamar" beat the "Cairo" by four goals to nil in mid-week, scoring twice in each half, while the Club's match against the "Titania" was not played off, as the sailors were unable to field a team.

The Chinese and the Gunners should play a fine game together. The Gunners should just manage to win.

The "Ambrose" men are expected to win their match against the "Cairo."

The second division is already completed, the "Curlew" Reserves having won the championship with 35 points. They won 17 matches out of 20, drew 1 and lost 2. The King's are runners-up with 32 points, winning 16 matches and losing 4.

FORGERY LAW.

COMING LOCAL ORDINANCE AMENDMENTS.

Eleven pages of to-day's Government Gazette are devoted to the draft of a bill to consolidate, simplify and amend the law relating to forgery and kindred offences.

Among the reasons given for the new legislation are the following:—

In the first place, as our criminal law is based mainly on the English criminal law it is obviously desirable to bring our law up to date so as to make it conform with English criminal law legislation. In this way, also, we get the benefit of the latest English decisions. A further small point is that adopting such an Act as the Forgery Act, 1913, may be a convenience in the adoption of other English statutes. For example, the Forgery Act, 1913, repeals part of section in the Companies Consolidation Act, 1908, which deals with a question of forgery. If we were adopting the Companies Consolidation Act, 1908, it might very well be that this particular forgery provision which would be necessary in our Ordinance, would be overlooked. This is merely an example, as of course we have already adopted the Companies Consolidation Act, 1908.

One advantage of the bill is that it contains in clause 3 a wide and careful definition of forgery. The present Ordinance contains no definition of forgery.

The bill is also more comprehensive in other ways. For example a case occurred recently in which a person had a false chop cut, intending to use it for the purpose of concealing from his employer a certain sum which he intended to commit on his employer. This appears to be no offence under the existing law, but it would fall under clause 7 (4) (b) of the bill.

WORLD THEATRE.

If you are tired of the "ordinary run" of motion pictures; if you thirst for some new twist and some new settings for your photoplay pleasure, don't fail to visit the World Theatre to-day. "The House of the Tolling Bell" is the offering and the distinctiveness of its appeal marks it as one of the few remarkable pictures. The action of the story takes place in Louisiana, a half-forgotten spot which still shows the influence of the early French settlers. The story deals with a contested will. In the struggle for possession of the House of the Tolling Bell, honour and intelligence clash with ignorance and superstition. The interest centres upon a beautiful young girl, whose future depends upon the issue. The struggle is ended by a surprise climax.

Besides this big picture there are a Topical Budget, showing Princess Mary's betrothal to Viscount Lascelles and a Snub Pollard Comedy "At the Ring Side".

OUR PICTURES.

To-day the China Mail publishes a series of photographs of the visit of H.R.H. the Prince of Wales to Hongkong. We have to acknowledge our indebtedness to Mae Cheung, who has a large number of splendid views of the visit, for supplying the pictures.

CHILDREN'S CORNER.

In the night my father took me for a motor car ride. We went along to the Tai Ping Theatre (is that the right way to spell it?). Then we went round the island. After that I went home to sleep. Goodbye.

I am,
Your loving
G. LANDWAY. Age 8.
5 Moreton Terrace,
Hongkong.
11th April, 1922.

Dear Mr. Peter Pan,
I am writing to you to tell you about the Prince of Wales' visit. As I am a Boy-scout I could not see the Prince land, but I saw him at the Government House lawn. My first opinion of him is that he is a very nice man. He spoke very nicely to us. He said that we were very smart. Isn't that nice of him?

The Prince went down to Causeway Bay to play polo. I went to Mr. C. Becker's house to see him play. Round the ground were such a big crowd of people! I had to go up the house before I can see. He played such a splendid game. I simply felt excited when I saw him riding at full speed after the ball. He shot two goals.

In the night I went out with my brother and sister to see the lights being lit up. They were so beautiful. There were the white lights round the Queen Victoria statue. Also, the Hongkong Hotel lines of lights of many colours. Mr. Ruttonjee's "Tell father we are all happy" is very nice. There were many more beautiful places, but I have no time to write about each one.

I saw the "Fish Procession." It was splendid to see all the fishes with lights inside them. But the best of all was the Dragon.

While we were looking at the Procession the fireworks were being displayed. They were very lovely ones. The peacock's tail was the best of the lot.

We went home about one o'clock that night.

Early the next morning we paraded before the Prince. You should have seen the dresses that some of the girls wore. The Convent's girls all had a red, white and blue round them.

We gave the Prince three good cheers.

After that I went to see him making speeches at the Statue Square.

There was a lot of people listening to him. He talked so splendidly. In the afternoon I went to the Races with Mr. C. Becker. There was a large crowd present. They were all waiting to see His Royal Highness. When he came along there was such a terrific cheering when he arrived! He had to lift his hat up the whole time that he appeared in public. I should not like to be him that day.

In the night I went to see the sights again. The Tai Ping Theatre was beautifully decorated.

I went home early that night because I have seen most of the sights. That is all I have to tell you about the Royal Visit.

Please send my prize, if I am going to have one, c/o Mr. C. L. Becker, 5 Moreton Terrace, Hongkong.

My age is 14 1/2 years.

Good-bye,

Yours loving,
C. JAMES.

THE TWO-FOOTED MOUSE.

A TRUE EASTER STORY.

Beryl was just four and a half and so she was of course old enough to know about Easter. Her elder sister Marion had told her that she was sure to have some Easter eggs and they hoped that they would be chocolate or sugar ones and not the cardboard eggs with a few sweets inside.

"Last year," said Marion, "When I came down to breakfast I found ever so many parcels on my plate, one from Auntie Sissie and another from Auntie Winnie and."

"Oh I do hope that I shall find some too," interrupted Beryl, who could not remember what she had had the year before.

"You are sure to have some," Marion assured her. "And the biggest one is always from Daddy and Mother."

It seemed a specially long week but at last Friday came, when they had hot cross buns for breakfast, and then came Saturday.

"Now only one day more," said Marion and, as their father was at home that day, they all went for a run in the car and took their tea with them and so the day went very quickly.

When they came back it was nearly bed-time and Marion and Beryl went straight up to the nursery. Nurse was busy getting the baths ready and Marion was looking at a new picture book so Beryl went off to her mother's room.

The door was ajar. She peeped in but there was nobody there and she was about to go out again when she caught sight of a parcel on the dressing table. Now you know how fascinating parcels are, especially when you have no idea what is in them! Beryl went a bit closer and saw that this one was round and big and that it was something wrapped in tissue paper.

"I should like to see what is in it," she said to herself and then, as she came a little closer still, she noticed that one corner was undone and inside was something dark and brown.

"I must see what it is," Beryl muttered and without stopping to think any more she tore away a scrap more of the paper.

And there was the most lovely chocolate egg with lines of white sugar criss-crossed all over it.

"Oh what a beauty!" she cried out loud. "It looks as though it tasted very good."

Now you must remember that Beryl was not very big and she usually did the first thing that came into her head and her next idea was to see what that egg tasted like. And so she stooped down and just touched it with the tip of her tongue and then took a tiny bite out of it. I do not know if she would have had just another taste but at that moment Nurse called out, "Where are you Beryl? Come along to bath dear," and off she ran as fast as her fat little legs would carry her. She was tired after being out for so long and was soon in bed and asleep.

The next morning when the two little girls came down to breakfast there, on their plates, just as Marion had said there would be, were ever so many parcels.

On Beryl's plate, on the top of them all, was one wrapped in tissue paper and when she opened it there was the big chocolate egg with the white sugar lines.

"How do you like that Beryl?" asked her mother, smiling at her. "That is from Daddy and me."

Beryl was about to reply when her father who was looking hard at the egg, cried "I do believe that a mouse has been nibbling it! Look at that side where a piece has been eaten out of it. Where has it been kept?"

"Only in my room," said her mother. "But if a mouse has been at it Beryl cannot eat it."

Beryl felt rather uncomfortable and grew very red and then suddenly she ran to her mother and burying her head in her lap burst into tears.

"Why whatever is the matter darling?" her mother asked and her father, who was trying to look very solemn and serious, said, "I do believe that it was a two-footed mouse this time."

"I didn't mean to Mother," sobbed Beryl. "I only looked at it a minute and then it looked so good and somehow a bit jumped into my mouth when I got close to it and I'm going to be good now," she finished suddenly.

As I said before, Beryl was not a very big girl, and so her father and mother soon forgave her and she managed to remember a bit better after that that she must not look into

KOWLOON MATTERS.

RESIDENTS' ASSOCIATION ACTIVE.

Several matters of interest were dealt with at a recent meeting of the Committee of the Kowloon Residents' Association.

The Committee considered a letter from the Government relative to the proposed Kowloon Hospital, stating that the delay in proceeding with the work is principally due to the fact that it has been necessary partially to re-draw the plans in order to carry into effect the modifications recommended by the Committee appointed to report on them. After discussion, it was decided to write the Government as to the date by which it is expected that the plans will be completed and also when the Government experts to be in a position to call for tenders.

Considerable correspondence was dealt with on the matter of recreation facilities for Kowloon, particularly with reference to a communication from the Kowloon Football Club asking the Association to use its influence to secure a suitable playing pitch. It was decided to urge the Government sympathetically to consider the Kowloon Club's application, also drawing attention to the general lack of recreation facilities in Kowloon. A small sub-committee was also appointed to investigate and report.

With regard to the rents question, the Hon. Secretary was instructed to write the Government expressing satisfaction at the decision to continue the operation of the Rents Restriction Ordinance, and requesting the Government to favour the Association with the nature of any proposed amendments.

It was reported to the Committee that several compradores in Kowloon who had raised their prices during the strike on the excuse that there was a lack of shipping were still maintaining these high charges and the opinion was expressed that it might be possible for the Secretary for Chinese Affairs to convey a hint to Chinese shopkeepers that profiteering could not be countenanced. After lengthy discussion the Committee decided that it could take no action as it was felt that the matter was largely one of supply and demand and that the people affected had the remedy in their own hands by patronising establishments at which fair and reasonable charges are made.

Among other matters dealt with were the Kowloon Cemetery site, the need for a tramway service on the Peninsula and the Association's representation on the Education Board.

parcels and taste them until they had been given to her.

PETER PAN.

THE PROUD CHOCOLATE EGG.

I'm made of chocolate as you see, I'm just as good as good can be. Upon my back are lines of white. I really am a splendid sight.

For sugar leaves surround me too And tiny birds of every hue.

And what is just the best of all I am a solid chocolate ball.

Not like some others who, I hear, (Though very fine and very dear)

Are nothing but an outside wall, No solidarity at all.

Inside the window now I stand With rows of eggs on either hand.

I'm sure the mothers all will say, "That's just the egg for Jack or May!"

And when they come to order buns They'll want to buy me for their sons.

The shop lady is drawing near, Goodbye small eggs. I'm going from here.

PETER PAN.

Which is the longest word in the language. Smiles; because there is a mile between the first and last letter.
